(Special to The Evening World.)
POLO GROUNDS, May 14.—Jack Doyle, the scrappy first baseman who used to play first base for the Giants when they were in the also ran class, will not play with the Windy City "remnants" against his old team to-night at this hour.

Waiting for a Flycatcher.

In Holyoke, Mass., and the first baseman has not been with the Chicago team for several days.

Charles Dexter, who is a bit undersized for a first sacker, is holding down the bag in "Scrappy" Jack's absence. Dexter is a spry little fellow, and in practice stunts he showed that the sphere will have to go very wide to get away from him.

Old Chicagoans Missing.

The "remnants" are well named. There are very few names on the Chicago batting order to remind the fans of the strong team of two or three years ago, when "Cap" Anson, Big Bill Lange, Billy Dahlen, Clark Griffith, Jimmy Callahan, Phil Everett and Jimmy Ryan, all star ball tossers, wore Windy City uniforms. Harry McCormick at short stop, Cupid Childs at second, Danny Green, Catcher Frank Chance and Pitcher Jack Taylor are the only names on the list that will recall last year's team.

The Chicagoans are a light-weight team this year, taken as a whole. The home-town crowd to represent the Rock Yards sized on Uncle Nick Young's circuit this year stands out in strong contrast to the big fellows who won pennants for Chicago when the prowess of Anson's White Stockings was a household by-word.

Davis's hustlers can trim the Westerners to-day they may occupy the proud position of pacemakers for the rest of the League clubs on the road toward pennantville by the time the day's games around the circuit have been decided. A win for New York over Chicago and a defeat for Cincinnati by the Superbas will put the Giants a few points in the van of the Porkopolis crowd.

Hope to Take Lead To-day.

Capt. Davis promises to carry out his part of the contract, if snappy ball-playing will win. He says his young hopefuls did enough had playing yesterday to hold them for quite a while to come. Buelow, the crack infielder on the WASHINGTON PARK, BROOKLYN, May 14.—Ned Hanlon and his collection of champion ballplayers were sore at heart and full of gloom this afternoon. When they trotted out to prepare for their first tussle of the season with John Brush's outfit of German experts from Cincinnati the champions' faces were as cloudy as the sky overhead.

It was their defeat by the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday that rankled. Every one of the champions had his roasting clothes on, and O'Day's ears must have burned wherever he was, for he came in for no end of caustic criticism.

With any other team in the League it might not have been so bad, but a defeat by New York, and such a defeat, was more than the Brooklyn men's sensitive feelings could bear.

Will Not File Protest.

Yesterday there was some talk of protesting the game, but this afternoon President Ebbets said: "We have no idea of protesting yesterday's game. In the first place, our protest would not go, for the simple reason that Umpire O'Day decided that Daly had been touched out before Keeler had crossed the plate. It was a case of Umpire O'Day's judgment against mine and Kitson to Pitch.

Manager Hanlon had out all of his twirlers, warming up their pitching wings, and after watching them go their loosening-up process he finally decided that Kitson had the most speed and better control and sent him in to pitch against the Holmes.

It didn't take Manager McPhee as long to decide on his twirler. Lefty Newton has always fooled Hanlon's crowd with his speedy benders, and he, of course, was trotted out to do the same thing again to-day.

THE JURY

Takes Up Bludgeon With Which Girl Was Murdered.

Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy's close scrutiny of the leaden bludgeon with which he is accused of killing Dolly Reynolds was a dramatic incident of the day in his third trial for the murder now in progress before Judge Newburger in Part III, General Sessions.

Proprietor William G. Leland, of the Grand Hotel, was telling the jury a vivid story of the finding of the murdered girl's body. He was shown the leaden bludgeon found beside Dolly Reynolds' body and identified it. As he passed it back to Assistant District Attorney Osborne, Mr. Moore asked for it. Dr. Kennedy sprang from his seat to his counsel's side. He was within three feet of the first line of jurors. He bent down and with Mr. Moore examined the bludgeon curiously.

He Picked Up Bludgeon.

Dr. Kennedy picked it up, handled it as if testing its weight and with a careless smile handed the murderous weapon back to his counsel.

It was a picturesque bit of play. The effect was not lost on the jurors, who turned from the witness to watch the accused man handling the weapon with which he stands accused of committing the crime.

A moment later Dr. Kennedy's counsel scored heavily by getting Proprietor Leland to admit that a robbery had been reported from the same floor as Room 84 on the night Dolly Reynolds was murdered.

This ended the proceedings for the day. The first witness in the third trial of Dr. Samuel J. Kennedy for the murder of Dolly Reynolds in the Grand Hotel, was called to the witness stand this afternoon after the prosecution's opening address to the jury.

She was Mary Higgins, a chambermaid of the Grand, who told how the body of Dolly Reynolds was found. Assistant District Attorney Osborne conducted the examination.

For the third time the leaden bludgeon was produced and identified as one she

MAY CALL TROOPS
FOR ALBANY STRIKE

Cars Wrecked, Motormen Beaten and All Trolley Wires Are Cut.

(Special to The Evening World.)
ALBANY, May 14.—It is feared that the National Guard will have to be called out. The car strikers have stopped the running of cars and every corner has its crowd of excited men. Brig.-Gen. Oliver, Commissioner of Public Safety and Sheriff McCreary are holding a conference this afternoon for the purpose of determining whether the militia shall be called out.

The first car was started out of the Quail street barns manned by police and non-union men at 10.30 o'clock to-day. It got as far as State street and went back to the barn after making two trips.

A second car was started out later manned the same way. It did not get far. A mob of 2,000 men, women and children gathered at the doors. A frightful roar went up of "Scab! Scab!" but the motorman turned the switch and the car slowly moved out of the barn toward the main track.

Police Guard Car.
Two policemen mounted the platform bygone motorman and two others took positions on the rear platform. Then a platoon of mounted and a strong force of foot police drove the crowd back, and amid jeers and hoots the car moved along the downtown route.

At every street corner there were stationed special and regular policemen. The car only came down as far as the foot of State street, and there was switched to run back. At this point it looked like a fight.

A thousand men swarmed towards the car in threatening array, shouting oaths and names. The motorman gripped his brass handles, the police drew their clubs and the mounted police drove into the surging crowd.

The car started rapidly and soon ran away from the hooting crowd. There were no pay passengers on the car and all the windows had been removed.

At the car barn as the car passed out the police arrested five of the crowd for refusing to obey orders and not crowd on the tracks. Two Pinkerton detectives rode down in the first car.
